Eskişehir Osmangazi University (ESOGÜ) is a higher education institution that closely follows global developments in higher education and seeks to contribute effectively to the national and international research ecosystem; accordingly, it recognises internationalisation as one of its strategic priorities. In this framework, the University aims to advance its education, research and societal engagement activities in alignment with international standards.

While ESOĞÜ seeks to educate individuals with an international perspective and vision by providing its students and staff with opportunities to engage academically, scientifically and socially with different cultures, it also embraces the understanding that international experiences enhance intercultural communication skills and have a positive impact on academic achievement, innovation and scientific productivity.

The participation of academic staff and research teams in international research networks, access to international funding opportunities, involvement in multi-partner projects, and the production of internationally competitive publications are regarded as strategic priorities. In this context, the University supports collaborations and multidisciplinary international initiatives that improve the quality of its research and development activities.

ESOGÜ aims to foster a multicultural academic environment on campus by increasing student and staff mobility. The University attaches importance to developing inclusive practices that provide international students and scholars with an environment conducive to cultural integration and interaction, while also enabling its own students and staff to gain high-quality academic experience in different countries.

With a view to strengthening its international academic visibility, consolidating its international position and enhancing its ability to attract students, ESOĞÜ supports joint degree programmes, international course modules, academic collaborations, thematic research centres, cultural events and active participation in globally organised activities.

Internationalisation processes are pursued in line with quality assurance principles, through an approach that is sustainable, inclusive and attentive to institutional coherence. Eskişehir Osmangazi University commits to sustaining, in harmony with its internationalisation policy, its mission to educate individuals who are committed to universal values, possess a global vision, and demonstrate a high level of scientific and social responsibility.
